Expert marine cosmetics

Redness, sensations of overheating, stinging... sensitive skin has an unusually low tolerance threshold when confronted with environmental aggressions such as cold, heat, dry air, pollution, etc.

These excessive reactions – a source of discomfort – can be even stronger for dry to very dry skin, which suffers from poor lipid metabolism. Lacking essential lipids, the epidermis cannot fulfil its role as a moisture-retaining barrier: this starts a vicious circle, leading to even more flakiness, roughness and sensations of tightness.

A pioneer in marine cosmetics, the THALGO Laboratory has discovered a phytoplankton micro-algae oil with a unique ability to “bio-accumulate” lipids. This oil contains a high concentration (up to 30%) of EPA-type Omega-3 fatty acids, the rarest and most complex essential fatty acids for our bodies to synthesise. The marine-origin EPAs have demonstrated exceptional affinity with the skin structures, as well as unparalleled bio-assimilation potential.

A unique recipe: Cold Cream Marine

This led to the discovery of the first algae oil. With extraordinary properties, it is used in a high concentration at the heart of a universal recipe, reinvented by the THALGO Laboratory, to deliver highly effective care to the driest and most sensitive skin:

COLD CREAM MARINE

- REPLENISHING
phytoplankton micro-algae oil, rich in EPA-type Omega-3 fatty acids, which are highly precious essential nutrients.
- SOOTHING
marine wax containing a high concentration of Laminaria Ochroleuca brown macro-algae extract, which helps to reinforce the skin's natural defences.
- REPAIRING
Sève Bleue des Océans, a remineralising “beauty water” containing 14 times more Siliconium, 12 times more Manganese and 8 times more Zinc than traditional seawater.
